Liberator Bombers Pound Enemy Base

American Planes Make Heavy Attack on Japs at Kiska

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The United States navy department reported today that American air forces in the Pacific opened the new year with heavy attacks against Japanese-held Kiska Island in the Aleutian Islands, and Japanese positions in the Solomon Islands, including the area believed to be headquarters of their force on Guadalcanal.

The navy communique said a force of liberator heavy bombers escorted by Lightning fighters attacked Japanese cargo ships in Kiska harbor. Six Zeros attempted to intercept the attack and one was shot down. A near-hit was scored on one small ship but clouds prevented observation of further results.

No United States planes were lost.

On January 1, Douglas bombers dropped bombs in the Kalambo area where Japanese headquarters on Guadalcanal are believed located. Dense jungle with prevented observation of results.

Meanwhile, Marauder medium bombers escorted by Corsairs, Lightning and Hawhawk fighters, bombed the Munda area of New Georgia Island. All United States planes returned undamaged.

Results of the raid were not disclosed.

Defeat For Axis Said in Making

LONDON, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Winston Churchill, broadcasting in the BBC overseas service in behalf of the Aid-to-Russia fund said that "we have good reason to hope, indeed to expect, that the victories in Russia, Africa and the Pacific are the beginning of the gathering avalanche that in the fullness of time will overwhelm Hitler and all his satanic works."

The prime minister's words were followed 1942 as an eventful year in which retreats and defeats were followed by triumphal successes.

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 2.—(AP)—R.A.F. Blenheim bombers swept over Kalambo, in the Myittha valley of Burma, yesterday afternoon and set it on fire with bombs that hit on the centre of the target area. A British headquarters communique said today.

Patrol bombers also hit shipping on the Andam coast and strafed places straddled rivers, the war bulletin said. One plane was lost in the action.

OTTAWA, Jan. 2.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in a New Year's message prepared for broadcast Thursday night, warned the Canadian people that "all our armed forces" will be in action during 1943 and that they "must be prepared for heavy losses."

The task ahead "will be much more difficult and in all probability more serious than any of us begin to realize," the prime minister said, but he expressed "profound thankfulness that the new dawn will be so much brighter than that of a year ago."

He said that Canadian feeling of thankfulness "is the greater in that we know our efforts as a nation have been worthy of the cause for which we fight."

For the effort of all the people, as civilians as well as service areas, he expressed the confidence that Canada had not only those who have served and suffered in the field of battle and to those who have been recruited by the war.

Allied Planes Heavily Blast Tunis, Bizerte

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 2.—(AP)—An Allied headquarters communique today reported three attempts by enemy air raiders to attack the Allied Algerian supply port of Bone on New Year's day but said every one was turned back "before reaching Bone."

LONDON, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Dispatches from Tunis today said that Allied bombers had practically destroyed the major Axis-held ports of Bizerte and Tunis, and the desperate Germans had been forced to divert most of their shipping to the southern ports of Sousse, Sfax and Gabes, which are under constant attack.

Allied bombers rounded out a week of around-the-clock blasting of Sousse, Sfax and Gabes, and it appeared that the Axis would soon be deprived of the use of every port in Tunisia.

Furthermore, Allied submarines, surface units and bombers were continuing on Page 2, Col. 4

Fortress City of Velikie Luki Falls To Soviet Forces

MOSCOW, Jan. 2.—The Red army made new gains on seven separate fronts during the night after one of its most glorious days of the war.

From the central front west of Moscow, where they captured the fortress city of Velikie Luki, killed every German in it except straggling prisoners and the wounded, to the Caucasus mountains, 1,100 miles to the south the Russians won on what had become their greatest offensive of the war.

Yesterday they captured Eliata, capital of the Kaimyk Republic, 170 miles south of Stalingrad, the biggest German base on the south-Stalingrad front, and 200 miles to the south in the Nalchik area of the Caucasus along the Terek river, they took Chikola and three other key towns.

Nazis Deny Velikie Luki Taken

A German official news agency dispatch broadcast from Berlin claimed that Velikie Luki was still in German hands but admitted that Eliata, capital of the Kaimyk Republic, had been "evacuated."

(The dispatch said Russian attacks continued in the Velikie Luki area and the German front line had been "shortened for tactical reasons which made possible a successful defence.")

During the night, Russians on the Central Front continued their drive in the Velikie Luki sector, repelled some weak counterattacks, and the news communique reported started to assemble the enormous amount of war spoils of all sorts they captured with that city, which the German position in the Leningrad front area and junction of two railroads which had cut off the entire German position on the front.

South and southwest of Stalingrad they captured several towns, villages and district agricultural centers, the news communique reported.

In the Caucasus, the Russians drove ahead, capturing new towns and villages in the Nalchik region. They were taking prisoners and seizing spoils everywhere, and continued on Page 2, Col. 3

Suez to Singapore

By Cecil Brown

THE DESTROYER STANDS BY THE old around the destroyer seems about two feet thick, solid oil. To me it looks like dirty black cator oil. And it tastes the same.

A rope with a loop at the end is tossed thirty feet from the destroyer to us. We miss it. The rope is hauled back and again is hurled. Someone grabs it, but Grayney tears it out of his hands and roughly passes the loop over me. "We have an American war correspondent here," he shouts at the destroyer. Then he waves and shouts, "Heave up, heave up!"

He asks solicitously, "Can you hold onto the rope?" "Of course. Don't worry about me. I'm all right."

And the men on the destroyer pull me off the edge of the Carley float. I sink underneath the oil, and for ten feet while I'm dragged underneath the surface I feel I'm plowing my way through some kind of solid wall. The pressure pounds at my head like a great rubber hammer.

Then I'm inside the destroyer. A wooden ladder hangs over the side.

"Grab hold—buddy!" someone on the destroyer yells down. I try to reach the bottom rung and catch it, it is just feet above me. The gentle undulation of the oil waves brings me nearer. I make a lunge and get my right hand on the bottom rung.

"You'll have to help yourself," a man on the destroyer calls. "Down the side of the destroyer there are other ladders and rope mats and nets, but I am afraid I lose my grip this line I can never make another try."

A friendly voice calls, "Hang on, hang on!"

DECK BURNING HOT I get up the ladder and four men drag me over the taffrail. The deck is burning hot on my bare feet.

They strip off my clothes and someone hands me a heavy rubber cork. I put it on, and one of the officers says, "Are you all right?" "I'm fine," I say. "Who has a camera on board this ship?"

The officer doesn't know, but he calls over another man, saying, "Find this man a camera. These must be used on board."

The camera clicks off and I stand there while Grayney, who has been called over another man, saying, "Find this man a camera. These must be used on board."

Grayney explains the pockets of my overalls, back pocket and shorts, and hands over the precious notebook in which I kept this account of the battle. I open the notebook.

More Doctors Needed

Mr. M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, has asked Prime Minister King to provide an opportunity during the coming session of Parliament for a full discussion of the powers and the personnel of the Canadian Medical Procurement and Assignment Board.

There are probably few outside the ranks of the medical profession who are familiar with the duties, powers, responsibilities and activities of the board. A few who know whether the course suggested is the best way to deal with the conditions which Mr. Coldwell complains.

But there is no doubt or question about the growing scarcity of doctors in rural areas and smaller towns. Many such doctors have enlisted. Many others have moved to larger centres. The result is that many communities of large but scattered population have been left without medical service.

At the same time, Mr. Coldwell states, there are a number of fully qualified refugee doctors in Canada who are not allowed to practice.

Obviously there is a situation that needs correcting.

It is in order that attention should have been called to it.

The Farm Front

Officials of the federal department of agriculture will go to Washington to confer with officials there with a view to securing a two-year extension of the production program for the coming year.

Farming is a war industry, the most vital of all. Men have fought with and without weapons that have cost nothing more plentiful than Gandhi's, but no army ever carried on long without food. Other things may be wanted for the equal, the well-fed army wins for the simple reason that endurance counts.

The Allies will need more food next year than they need this year. The forces will be larger. And every gain of territory they make will be territory whose people have been robbed of their food. An army can go on for a while. Wherever a forward movement is made the first problem will be to feed the hungry population. The supplies must be on hand in advance.

The Russians are hungry this winter, and they may be hungry next winter, too. We will have to go on the front. They must get every ton of food this continent can deliver to them, certainly during the winter, and probably during the rest of the year.

The time is not in sight when there will not be real need, perhaps urgent need, for the food it is possible to produce on the farms of this continent. Provided, of course, the production is varied and we do not pile up a bigger surplus of wheat at the expense of growing too little of something else.

The conferees will need to be as much concerned with quantity. The sky is the limit so far as total production is concerned. The purpose of a continental program must be to produce as much as the continent is able to vary their operations, so that there may be balance as between one food and another, and between the various purposes there must be a continuity of farm prices and other prices, and also between the prices of one farm product and another.

They Deliver The Goods

Mr. D. C. Coleman, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has very fittingly, and very effectively, it is to be hoped, called public attention to the service which the railways of Canada are giving the nation in these wartime days; service that has taxed the resources of the transportation systems as these were never taxed before.

The statement, which has been published in editorially summarized in this opening paragraph:

"The end of another year of war finds the railways of Canada faced with greater difficulties than they have ever known in twelve months they have experienced. Its services have been brought to a point of unprecedented traffic volume together with marked shortages of material and labour. These difficulties, however, are being met and overcome, and I believe it to be a matter of common knowledge that the transportation system is giving the nation a service which has taxed the resources of the transportation systems as these were never taxed before.

Like Kipling's 'Tommy Atkins', Canadian railways are working hard and for service in wartime, but get more mileage than on complicity in peacetime. This neither fair nor just. The railways, and with its railways in a state of efficiency, Canada could not carry on a war effort of any comparable proportions to the present one. It could not carry on the operations of peacetime without them. That fact should get more practical recognition than it does.

Canada's railways give us service, in peace and war. Their rates cannot be excessive, for their net earnings are not normally large. In peacetime years they do not net earnings at all. They rank among the best transportation systems on the continent. Mr. Coleman very properly asks that they be given more consistently the credit that is their due.

United States war information officials say the peoples of North Africa are desperately in need of food. That condition can only have come about because the colonies were looted of grain and cattle before the Allies occupied them. Tunisia and Algeria include highly productive areas from which France normally draws quantities of food supplies. The crops of last summer were no doubt shipped to France as usual—and are likely enough being eaten in Germany.

The troops, first of four destroyers of the British class being built for the Canadian navy in British shipyards, is now in commission and somewhere at sea. The Athabasca, Huron and Haida have been launched but are not in service. Two more are under construction in Canadian yards. These vessels rank in size between destroyers of earlier types and light cruisers. They are the most powerful units in our big fleet of little boats.

General Giroux has started housecleaning at the North Africa French headquarters. A dozen men, "some of them prominent", and including "some of my best friends" were summarily ordered to prevent "further assassinations." The "friends" were put in custody for carelessness. The killing of General Giroux, General Giroux and Mr. Robert Murphy, special representative of President Roosevelt. The General knows M. Laval and his talent for intrigue. "That is why," says a demoted youth acting on his own, Giroux has no illusion.

During the year ending in October, Great Britain and the United States jointly sent to Russia, by the northern route, 205,000 tons of supplies. Included in these, 831,000 tons of miscellaneous machine tools, metal, etc., 42,000 tons of aviation spirit and petrol, 35,000 tons of fuel oil, 30,000 tons of food, 30,000 tons of clothing, 30,000 tons of medicine, 30,000 tons of other supplies. The House of Commons by Mr. Richard Law, parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs. They explain in measure why Russia, with great industrial areas in operation, was able to launch spearhead offensives at a half dozen points on a front 700 miles long.

Post-War Plans Must Be Positive in Construction

Reform Should Strike
Roots of Social and Economic Evils

By HAROLD WEIR

One of the mistakes to be avoided in all post-war planning is that of proceeding on a negative rather than a positive construction.

And, as excellent as Beveridge Plan is, it is in itself and purpose, it contains the very drawback.

Employment of the unemployed should be the chief concern of such a plan.

It is necessary that we do plan for the future, but not for the past.

But now we are blue-printing for the future.

Wardrop has shown us that we need not let cost in money stop us in our plans for the future.

The real cost is found in resources, labor, time, etc. Can we have a plan for the future that will take these years to our peace-time needs?

But these states of helplessness Harold L. Weir should be considered the most serious of our problems.

Our plans contemplate such conditions as a normal basis for a post-war world.

Cure for infantile is imperative; education for youth is a necessity for the welfare of the state for the benefit of the individual. It should be available to all.

Hospitalization and expert medical aid are necessary for the welfare of all who need them.

Poverty

Consumption purchasing power should be constant at least up to certain proportions of need, and production.

Poverty is the midst of plenty, idleness side by side with starvation, industry robbed of its production while waste needs fables among a people, are things we know and see.

But we believe the problems must be considered as from the positive side. During the depression, we were confronted with a condition, a therapy and a condition that had to be dealt with at once to save society from disintegration.

But now we are blue-printing for the future.

Wardrop has shown us that we need not let cost in money stop us in our plans for the future.

The real cost is found in resources, labor, time, etc. Can we have a plan for the future that will take these years to our peace-time needs?

But these states of helplessness Harold L. Weir should be considered the most serious of our problems.

Side Glances

By Galbraith

When this matter is broached we shall have the question asked.

Then when it is pointed out what is done there is a reaction and ridicule; no straight thinking and serious answers. "It's a matter must be used, even optate numbers, but as soon as possible a real doctor looks for the cause and treat that with serious results. Our world has been sick, not just now but for long.

During the depression, and during the war, we must act for the present need. But in post-war conditions, we must act for the future, and plan for a world that will be up to the limit of our resources and our labor.

Man is never so happy as when he is free from the facts of himself and those dependent on him. He is free from the facts of himself and those dependent on him. He is free from the facts of himself and those dependent on him.

Equal opportunities for life in this world are the facts of life. Education for the youth according to the needs of the world, and the need for care and needed skill when sick, equal security for the world, and the need for care and needed skill when sick, equal security for the world.

Then planned from a positive standpoint can give us an economically healthy society.

I know we've always thrown our big dance during the 'spring semester', but we're facing a crisis—after the first of February this college will be practically a girls' school!"

Mrs. Mail will spend her birthday quietly at home as she did last year. She has received many messages of congratulations.

This year Mrs. Mail is delighted that her "flaming flowers" Janna Bodman has been promoted to the rank of squadron leader in the R.C.A.F. for her service in Scotland where he is undergoing special training.

Born and married in England where her husband, James Mail, was an executive officer, he came to Edmonton in 1911 and has made her home here ever since.

She has four sons and two daughters now living. One of her sons, Leo, was killed overseas in the Great War, where he served with the 49th Battalion, Edmonton Battalion.

India Behind Allied Effort Says Official

More than one million of India's fighting sons, fully armed and equipped, are marching in the annual Field Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell, and between 30,000 and 40,000 of India's young men are voluntarily offering their services each month to the various services.

Announcement of the promotion came from headquarters of No. 4 air training command, R.C.A.F., at Calgary.

Squadron Leader Graham served the First Great War with the 8th B.C.E.F. (Little Black Devils), of Winnipeg.

Soon after the present war started he enlisted in the R.C.A.F. and served in the recruiting office at Winnipeg for some months.

He was posted to the recruiting centre command last spring when Squadron Leader Harry E. Jones, then commanding officer here, was posted to new duties on the west coast.

HOME AT WINNIPEG

Home of the new squadron leader is in Winnipeg, where his family lives. Before entering the air force he was engaged in the grain business at Winnipeg.

He is a keen sportsman and was active in the promotion of rugby and hockey in Winnipeg.

In addition to the official notification of his promotion from air command headquarters at Ottawa, Squadron Leader Graham also received a personal letter of congratulation from Air Vice-Marshal G. H. Rowan, official commanding officer, air training command, Calgary.

BUCKINGHAM, Que., Jan. 2.—(CP)—Five persons, including the governor, lost their lives Thursday when fire destroyed a farmhouse near Thorsby, Ont., about 18 miles from here.

The victims were Francis Colling, 35, a farmer; Miss Theresa Colling, 30, his sister; and Mr. Colling's three children, George, 10, Philip, nine, and Bernard, seven. Mrs. Colling, the wife and mother, escaped.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Cause of the fire was unknown. Mrs. Colling was awakened by smoke and flames about 2 a.m. The house was then an inferno and she was forced to jump from a second story window into deep snow, clad only in a nightgown.

Dr. Castello said Mrs. Colling ran in "bare feet through the snow to a barn, where she pulled herself in a pile of straw with the family dog to help keep her warm."

Edmund Burke, a farmer living a mile and a quarter away from the Collings home, saw the flames and hurried across the fields on foot to a lantern. There was little light of the house when he arrived. He heard a call from the barn and found Mrs. Colling.

Meet Mrs. Mabel Irvén—Canada's Mother Of The Year

Mrs. Irvén works in a large Canadian gun arsenal. She's on the job from 7:30 A.M. to 7:30 P.M., six full days a week, and has seldom missed a day's work.

Her two sons, John, top, and Leonard, with the R.C.N. A filter, Mrs. Irvén works on the trigger gear, an important part of the 6-pdr. anti-tank gun. Puzzled as to its use, she enquires from foreman, Len Whyte.

Expert fitter Leon Huttawa explains to her how the trigger gear fits into the firing mechanism. Plant employs 8,800, turns out hundreds of guns per month.

Foreman Whyte takes Mrs. Irvén to a finished weapon, and shows her the vital function of the component she produces. In addition to a splendid attendance record, Mrs. Irvén purchases Victory Bonds. She is considered a model worker.

Getting Around

body keeps 'em. The guy who likes to crank the clock more often than is wise, never fails to say: "Never again!" after the first of the year. Then the heavy summer always "quits" at the new year, or rather in its many per cent of the young lady who goes for the chocolate or cream puffs in such a big way may bring a slight dim-out society, except January 1 of each year for the start of a long procession of sweetest days.

Business men with consciences won't terminate the habit of phoning the little woman that "work" will detain them after business hours, when the only business is funny business.

A lot of the boys and girls start off the world-beaters each January 1. The fellow who was hitting too many, feels so darned good after a week on the wagon he gets snored-up again to celebrate his new state of sobriety.

The slave to our lady nicotine suffers for a week or two, and then he's off to work with him, and then having "conquered" himself, decides to have a whiff or two to see what a terrible habit he had "vanquished."

Our tired business man finds out that his new home-coming habit is a lead to greater success than to decide three days' much more in a lot of two of pokers after it. You've got a whole year to work.

Many Promotions Are Confirmations

OTTAWA, Jan. 2.—(CP)—Although their names appeared in the new year's list of promotions for many officers in the higher ranks the list doesn't mean extra strings.

Some officers, for instance, appeared in the list as promoted to commander. Actually they may have been wearing the three stripes of a commander for some months, in an acting capacity.

But many promotions had today a confirmation in rank is equivalent to a promotion as far as the navy is concerned, since the date of confirmation determines the seniority of the officer in that rank. Confirmation appears as promotion in the new year's and other promotion lists.

U.S. Group Plans Jobs for Post-War

Hoffman, president of Studebaker corporation, explained that the committee grew out of a meeting of business men called together by Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones several months ago, at which time the secretary suggested such a group might accept the responsibility of assisting commerce and industry to meet the problems to be faced when hostilities cease.
